

SUMMARY: The telling of the event at the home of Simon the leper is suggested to illustrate conflicts in the scriptures. It actually reflects writers writing from different points of view. The composite of the details is: At the home of a Pharisee called Simon the leper a woman named Mary who was a sinner took a one pound alabaster vial of very costly perfume called nard and poured it over his whole body including his head and feet.

The event of a woman anointing Jesus with perfume in the four Gospels may possibly be addressing different events, or they may all be the same event. To rise to the level of being a mistake in the Bible, it would need to show a contradiction rather than the simple reporting of different details by different writers. If all the details will reasonably fit in the same story, it would not be a contradiction.

woman in the city who was a sinner; and when she learned that He was reclining at the table in the Pharisee's house, she brought an alabaster vial of perfume, and standing behind Him at His feet, weeping, she began to wet His feet with her tears, and kept wiping them with the hair of her head, and kissing His feet and anointing them with the perfume. "You did not anoint My head with oil, but she anointed My feet with perfume.

John 12:1-8 | NASB 1 Jesus, therefore, six days before the Passover, came to Bethany where Lazarus was, whom Jesus had raised from the dead. 2 So they made Him a supper there, and Martha was serving; but Lazarus was one of those reclining at the table with Him. 3 Mary then took a pound of very costly perfume of pure nard, and anointed the feet of Jesus and wiped His feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume.
